The Pre-Vet Club received a special post-Halloween treat when UNH alum Dr. Nicole Young (B.S. Animal Science 2006) and certified veterinary technician Danielle Dodds of Stratham-Newfields Veterinary Clinic did a CPR workshop for the club. After a presentation on the basics and a demonstration, students practiced their skills on animal models. To get the required number of compressions a minute, Dr. Young suggested doing them to the beat of the song “Stayin’ Alive”. Things really livened up when someone started playing the song on their iPhone as students practiced on the stuffed dogs and cats.
